Issues regarding the selection of Project Scientist (Physiology) in Project- Population Management of species involved in Human Wildlife Conflict. Dear Sir, This is to bring you an information regarding the selection of Project Scientist (Physiology) in Project- Population Management of species involved in Human Wildlife Conflict which interview was held on 16th of July 2018. My registration number is WII20180110 The issue is that the candidate (Priya Gusain) selected for the given post does not have any immunology/physiology/endocrinology background and also does not have any research article which shows his expertise related to the post. On the other hand, I did my Ph.D. in reproductive physiology (Embryo implantation and its regulation by ovarian steroids) and I also have seven publications which show my expertise in endocrinology and reproductive physiology. I also have an additional 2 years of Postdoctoral experience in reproductive physiology. Further, since the project is to control the wildlife population of monkeys, Blue bull, elephants and wild boar using immunocontraception, so on what basis the candidate has been selected for the post. My personal interview was also very good and I am confident in that. For your kind perusal, I have attached the Pubmed list of mine and the candidate selected for this post along with the advertisement and result list in a single PDF. Kindly take a necessary action and reply about this issue. Please also clearly state that what is the basis of the selection of this candidate for the post and not mine. Thanks & Regards, Vineet
